SOLUTION OF NEGRO PROBLEM

Speaker at Meeting of Scientists Says the South, in Many Respects, Leads Country.

(By Associated Press.)
 PHILADELPHIA, December 29.—Diet as a factor in the prevention and cure of consumption, the negro race problem, child labor question in Southern mills and a number of other themes of equal interest formed the basis of some of the many papers read before the second day's session of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Edward L. Blackbeard, of the Prairie View State Normal and Industrial College of Texas, discussed "Some Survivals of Primitive Racial Instincts in American Negroes." He heard the education needed by the negro is one of the will develop character, a sense of personal responsibility and a sense of the inviolability of personality. As a solution for the race problem he said he would suggest, simply education, experience and the teaching of negroes over the country.

After calling attention to the conditions of comparative well being that exist among the children in the South, he said there are more children under sixteen years of age working in the factories of Pennsylvania than there are in all the Southern States put together. One reason why the percentage of child-work in the South is large is the fact that the percentage of children is larger. While Massachusetts has 60,000 more population than Georgia, he said, the Southern State had 100,000 more children of school age than the New England State. He said, in adding the country in wages, compared with the cost of living, in sanitary conditions and in other ways, though there are some conditions which exist that ought to be wiped out. It was his opinion that child labor was not a sectional, but a national evil.

CONQUERING COLLEGIANS.

Cornell Glee Club Gave Delightful Entertainment.

The entertainment of the Cornell Glee Club at the Academy of Music last evening was greatly enjoyed by a brilliant audience.

The Hucians were in splendid trim, and as fine looking youngsters as ever stood before the footlights, and picked the string or caroled to drive dull care away. In their unselfish effort they succeeded in making the audience forget that they were rendering on a concerting tour of the South during the Christmas holidays is broad gauge, ranging from the borderland of grand opera to the most comic college song. Between these two extremes the Cornell Glee Club has a hand of an audience, even as critical and representative as that gathered in the Academy last night. Again and again the college boys called back and forced to sing or play, until it looked like the audience was with make a thorough, persistently trying to exhaust an unlimited repertoire. The performers evidently enjoyed the concert a great deal, almost as much as the audience. In fact, every one in the house seemed to be in a thoroughly good humor with himself and with every one else.

"The audience was quite large. The orchestra was nearly filled, while the balcony enjoyed its usual popularity. Beautiful girls, in soft, white costumes, filled the grand opera boxes, while a handsome, elegantly dressed company, composed of prominent people of the city, occupied seats in the orchestra.

When the curtains fell, men and maiden hurried to the balcony in honor of the visiting collegians.

The entertainment was given under the auspices of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities.

PEABODY LIKELY TO BE RESEATED

Board's Action Gives Republicans Absolute Control of Colorado General Assembly.

WILL PROBABLY OUST ADAMS

Definite Decision, However, Will Not Be Reached Until Caucus Next Monday.

(By Associated Press.)
 DENVER, December 29.—By the action of the State Canvassing Board in issuing certificates of election as senators to Casimiro Barola and Henry B. Millard, the Republicans have secured such absolute control of the General Assembly that it is now regarded in Democratic circles as highly probable that Governor James H. Peabody will be reelected. The Republican plan, it is said, is to accomplish this by throwing out the vote of all Democratic wards of Denver and counting the vote of the Republican wards.

Although the men of the canvassing board refused to say how they stood on the proposition to go behind the returns, it has been learned that one member, State Treasurer Whitney Newton, was opposed to the action taken. Those who voted in favor of unseating the Democratic senators-elect are Governor James H. Peabody, Secretary of State James Cowie, Attorney-General G. C. Miller and Auditor J. A. Halburg. All the members of the board are Republicans.

District Judge Samuel L. Carpenter appeared before the Supreme Court to-day in response to a citation requiring him to show cause why he should not quash the alternative writs of mandamus issued by him against the State Board of Canvassers and explain why he assumed jurisdiction in disregard of the opinion and judgment of the Supreme Court. Judge Carpenter issued his writs in defiance of the board to accept the returns from Las Animas and Boulder counties, which showed the election of the Democratic candidates for the Senate. The Supreme Court had refused the Democrats permission to file a mandamus suit and ordered the lower courts not to interfere with the Canvassing Board.

Judge Carpenter explained that he did not know the full purport of the Supreme Court's decision when he issued the writs and admitted that the higher court's order made it obligatory to dismiss the proceedings in the case. He said this was the only course he was left with. The citation against him was dismissed, and the writs were quashed.

Very few members of the Legislature have yet arrived in the city and whether the plans of William G. Evans and other Republican leaders to resent Governor James Peabody will be adopted by a majority of the Republican members is still undecided. The Republicans have an even two-third of the votes on a joint ballot and can carry any measure on which they are united.

CHASE MAY HAVE TO BE DROPPED

is a painful subject and I have suffered. Mrs. Elliott's voice quivered, and her eyes were filled with tears.

"Such cruel, unkind things have been published about me," she continued when she had gained her self control. "It is so difficult for a woman to prove otherwise to the common people. My own liberties, however, unjust and uncalled for, with her name."

"I have hesitated to reply to the base, false, cruel insinuations that have been leveled against me by a man whom I befriended, who broke bread at my table and who took money from my hand."

"Now, now, Emma," interrupted Mr. Elliott, "don't say too much. Control yourself."

"If the truth must be known," replied Mrs. Elliott, "why should not I do my part in showing this man to the world in his true colors? He has again tried to cast reflection upon me by stating that I was a woman who had been seduced by him. Suppose I did? I frankly admit that I was a woman of purple on several occasions when Bishop Talbot was a visitor to my house, but I had the gown made in Philadelphia long before I ever met or knew Bishop Talbot. My wearing it had nothing to do with his coming, and Dr. Irvine knows it. It is but another of his unkind remarks by which he hopes to injure Bishop Talbot and myself."

"My relations with Bishop Talbot have been simply and only those of friendship. It was my duty when the Bishop of this diocese came to Huntington to receive him and entertain him. Other members of the church here did so, and my assistant, I have testified to so far. I was innocent of any wrong-doing or of any intention of wrong-doing, and no one knows it better than Dr. Irvine. He has acted all along through sheer malice."

"If I will tell you why Dr. Irvine has tried to injure me, I have been a member of St. John's Church here for years, and until a short time ago was president of the church."

The trial took place before the bishop in the chapter room of the cathedral and caused a great sensation. It lasted the better part of two weeks. The only witness for Dr. Irvine was Dr. Irvine himself. The girl, who was extremely simple-minded, gave testimony which, although it established the exact charge, made it clear that Irvine was culpable. There was a difference of testimony principally as to the charge of untruthfulness, was, however, established. Our verdict, therefore, without qualification, and sustained the charge of immorality as to the fact, and not as to the charge of untruthfulness, which we could take no cognizance because no charge of the nature was made in the presentment. The Ladies' Auxiliary. The Rev. Mr. Houghton was rector of the church when I came here after my marriage to Mr. Elliott. I had obtained a divorce from my second husband and Mr. Elliott had obtained a divorce from his first wife. I went to Mr. Houghton and explained to him that I had been divorced under the canons of the church. He said my explanation was satisfactory and he had no objection to my becoming a communicant in the church.

Told of Divorces.
 "I told Dr. Irvine in my own house and in the presence of two other women members of our church that I was a divorced woman, and he offered no objection. He and I were on the friendliest terms after that. He often dined at my house, and I went to his house. He never hesitated to give him any amount he desired.

"The trouble began with the coming of a choir master from St. Luke's Church, at Altoona, to instruct the choir at our church. When the time came for my singing the choir master, who had been told of my divorce, refused to let me sing. I gave him the needed sum, it was not quite $30, and I thought no more of the matter until one day, greatly to my surprise, I received a letter from the choir master, who had returned to Altoona, informing me that he had refused to let me sing because I was a divorced woman.

"That is the explanation of this whole controversy. Of course, when Bishop Talbot learned the truth he took Dr. Irvine to task about it, and later took my side in the matter.

"Dr. Irvine's attitude upon Bishop Talbot was so far as I know. My friendship for Bishop Talbot was such as could invite no criticism, except from a man who has been making statements concerning both of us that are nothing more nor less than a tissue of falsehoods.

Hints at Horsewhip.

Under date of Chicago the New York Herald yesterday printed the following: The Rev. Dr. Irvine, according to information made public in Chicago to-day, was tried by a commission of twelve, which was composed of the following members: The Rev. John Wilkinson, then of Galesburg; the Rev. William H. Sparling, formerly of Tennessee, and Dr. Irvine, formerly of Chicago. Dr. Irvine was charged with the seduction of a girl, who was then a minor, and with the commission of a crime which was defined in the indictment as "the crime of seduction." ## REPLACING GRAIN WITH ALFALFA

Dairy Farmers Should Grow Their Own Feed Stuffs.

For two years experiments have been carried on in Tennessee to test the value of alfalfa, wheat bran, cowpeas and cotton seed oil as best for milk cows. These experiments are carefully conducted and the results are most valuable as showing that the cost of milk can be greatly reduced by replacing a part of the concentrate in the daily ration of the cow with some roughness rich in protein, such as alfalfa or cowpea hay.

It is an advantage to feed a dry roughness which is intended to replace a part of the concentrates in a ration with alfalfa, because of its succulent and palatable nature.

A ton of alfalfa or pea hay can be produced at a cost of from $3 to $5, whereas, wheat bran costs from $20 to $25. From three to five tons of alfalfa can be obtained from an acre of land; hence, alfalfa is greatly to be recommended in these roughnesses in the place of wheat bran.

Alfalfa and pea hay cannot be substituted to the best advantage for cotton seed meal, as this food stuff is so very rich in protein that a larger bulk must be consumed than the capacity of the average cow will permit.

The substitution of a roughness rich in protein for an expensive concentrate will enable the dairyman to make milk and butter at a less cost and will thus solve one of his most serious problems.

In substituting alfalfa for wheat bran, the farmer can allow 1 1/2 pounds of alfalfa to each pound of wheat bran, and the results are likely to prove most satisfactory if the alfalfa is fed in a finely chopped condition.

These tests indicate that with alfalfa hay at $10 a ton and wheat bran at $20 the saving effected by substituting alfalfa for wheat bran would be $2.50 for every 100 pounds of butter and 10.8 cents for every 100 pounds of milk. The farmer could thus afford to sell his milk for 10.8 cents a hundred less than he now receives and his butter for about 22 cents as compared with 32 cents a hundred. The experiments show why alfalfa has been frequently used as a basis of manufactured food stuffs and indicate that the farmer who can grow it makes a mistake in purchasing artificial food stuffs of which it forms the basis.

When alfalfa was fed under the most favorable conditions a gallon of milk was obtained for 5.7 cents and a pound of butter for 10.4 cents. When pea hay was fed the lowest cost of a gallon of milk was 5.2 cents and of a pound of butter 9.4 cents. In localities where pea hay grows well it can be utilized to replace alfalfa in rations where alfalfa can be grown this crop can be substituted for pea hay with satisfaction.

Alfalfa Makes the Meat.

On a New Mexico farm three lots of three steers, each weighing about 1,000 pounds, were fed for 102 days during the winter. On alfalfa alone they gained an average daily gain of 1.35 pounds per head; those fed alfalfa hay and shredded Kaffir-corn stover, 1.40 pounds, and those fed alfalfa hay, shredded corn stover, 1.45 pounds. The feed required per pound of gain was 17.8 pounds with alfalfa, 16.2 pounds with alfalfa and shredded Kaffir-corn stover, 15.2 pounds with alfalfa and corn stover, 14.2 pounds with alfalfa and corn stover, 13.2 pounds with alfalfa and corn stover, 12.2 pounds with alfalfa and corn stover, 11.2 pounds with alfalfa and corn stover, 10.2 pounds with alfalfa and corn stover, 9.2 pounds with alfalfa
